We create responsibly produced textiles which combine timeless Nordic design with exquisite craftsmanship.

Our story is one of ethics, integrity and respect. It began in 2002, when we learned about the qualities of alpaca wool during a backpacking trip to Peru. Struck by its softness and durability, we set about blending elegant, pared-back aesthetics with centuries-old Peruvian weaving traditions, forging strong relationships with artisans, community projects and mills. A year later ELVANG was born, becoming the first company to introduce throws made of alpaca wool to Scandinavia.

Today, our collections are sold in numerous countries worldwide, but our social and environmental commitment remains unchanged. Making responsible choices lies at the heart of everything we do, from securing better pay for alpaca shepherds and employee benefits for weavers to reducing transport emissions, recycling packaging and repurposing fibres. This has led to the highest possible level of recognition within the World Fair Trade Organization (WFTO) as a Guaranteed Member and participation in the UN Global Compact Initiative, ensuring that our supply chains and business model put people, the planet and animals first.

The Throw and Cushion Collections

ELVANG's throw and cushion collections embody of warmth, elegance and responsible craftsmanship

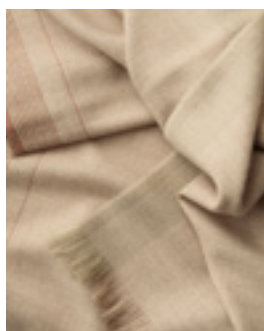

Ècru throws Design by Cecilie Manz

100% baby alpaca
130 x 207 cm/ 51x 82 inches. Weight app. 600 g

The collection called Ècru is designed by Danish Cecilie Manz and consists of three throws. They differ from each other both in the base colour and in the discreet stripes along the edges that vary in both weave and colour, giving each throw its own unique identity. The throws come in three classic basic colours - a soft beige, an off-white and a brown. All are the natural colours of baby alpaca wool, which means that the fibres are not dyed.

Lava throws

Material: 89% superfine alpaca wool/11% nylon

Weight app 540 g

130 x 190 cm/ 51x75 inches.

The throw named Lava is bombastic and warm, just like the volcanic lava it is named after; one of nature's most fascinating phenomena. The material is a mix of soft alpaca wool with a small amount of nylon, but it's the yarn that gives the surface its special character. It's a bouclé type, characterised by small loops that give extra volume and create a characteristic fluffy surface that retains warmth without compromising on lightness. Lava is available in three beautiful versions with wide coloured stripes that meet on a warm cream background - a modern moss green and pink, an elegant blue-grey and brown, and the more classic navy and sky blue.

Weight: app. 560 g

130 x 200 cm/ 51x79 inches.

Stripes are an eternally relevant motif - timeless, elegant and versatile. The River throw is all that and more, of course. The graphic pattern suits most interiors, and the exceptionally light and delicate weave with its soft surface makes the throw the obvious choice when you both need to keep warm and enjoy wrapping yourself in a material that doesn't feel heavy, yet hugs your body tightly and securely. The throw comes in a delicate light grey combined with an ivory white that further adds to the feeling of understated luxury.

The Floor Runner and Seat Pad Collections

ELVANG's floor runner and seat pad collections are a harmonious blend of elegance and functionality.

Walnut & Hazelnut floor runners

Our Walnut & Hazelnut floor runners are handmade in Portugal and produced of 100% upcycled fibres / surpluses of the textile industry. The rugs are handmade in the North of Portugal within a family business using a traditional wooden loom. No electricity is involved - only pure muscles' sparks! The rug is suitable as a bathmat, a kitchen rug or in any other room for cosiness and decoration.

Consistent with our responsible approach to production the rug is made of 100% textile waste from the textile industry. The rug being made from upcycled material means that the composition will vary between a mix of cotton, polyester and viscose always woven together with jute.
